

Life on the Wind

Intermediate Storytelling Workshop

10am – 2pm, Sat. 15th March 2014,
The Bluecoat, Liverpool
www.liverpoolstorytelling.co.uk

Storyteller and author Sally Pomme Clayton will lead a practical workshop exploring some of the creative process of liberating a story from a book and bringing it back to 'a life on the wind' - by telling it.. Using fun and varied creative tasks we will look at: story structure; imagery; memory; character and improvisation, as we shape our stories for telling. This is a subtle and personal process, allowing you to develop your own unique version of a story - something that storytellers have been doing since the beginning of time. Afterwards you will be able to apply the tasks to other stories you might want to tell.

This workshop is for people with some experience of storytelling. Please bring a short traditional story with you (no more than 2 pages long), a myth, fairytale, legend or folktale.. Try to bring a story that you have not told - as you will get more out of the workshop.

Sally Pomme Clayton is a writer and performance storyteller. She founded The Company of Storytellers with Ben Haggarty and Hugh Lupton in 1985 spearheading storytelling in the UK. She lectures on World Oral Traditions and is a popular Artist in Residence; developing multi-media performances for, amongst others, The Royal Shakespeare Company and the British Museum's project 'A History of the world in 100 objects'. In 2012 Sally Pomme worked with composer David Bruce and The London Philharmonic Orchestra, writing & performing Prince Zal and the simorgh at The Royal Festival Hall. Last year she toured The Company of Storytelling, performing their ground-breaking work The Three Snakes Leaves. Recent solo performances include Soho Theatre; The National Gallery; York Theatre Royal; The Royal Shakespeare Company, and visits to Spain & Greece. She has published ten children's books, her latest is 'Greek myths, stories of sun stone and sea'. For more info about Sally Pomme, see www.sallypommeclayton.com
